SINGLE COUNTRY PROGRAMS

13. (SBU) Post proposes a SCP for Syria with the title "Preventing Domestic Violence and Abuse." A small number of women's shelters and an abuse hotline currently exist in Damascus, catering to both Syrian women and Iraqi refugees who have been abused and/or trafficked. It is a Mission priority to help both communities and to highlight for the general public and the Syrian government the importance of protecting women and families from abuse. The program can be based on the existing RP offered for FY2010, with the SYRIA addition of one or two days of conflict resolution training at a U.S. university. The training will help the volunteers work better with a religiously and ethnically diverse clientele. The program will include 5-8 volunteers who work with NGOs and shelters providing protection and healthcare services to abused women and children. The preferred timeframe for the program is the first two weeks of October 2009 due to the university schedules of several of the participants.

14. (SBU) Post proposes a second SCP for Syria with the title "Sustainable Urban Development." A huge population boom, combined with urban sprawl, limited water resources, insufficient electrical capacity, illegal housing and inadequate sewage systems are just a few of the challenges confronting urban planners in Syria. Syria's sprawling bureaucracy and outdated laws are ill-equipped to cope with the challenges of the 21st century. Urban planners arguing for sustainable development are often outnumbered by wealthy businessmen who want to promote tourism or factories at the expense of the environment or the surrounding community. This SCP is an opportunity for Syrian participants to explore sustainable development practices to reduce air and water pollution, to improve sanitation and waste management, to improve the transportation infrastructure, and the provision of water, electricity and other utilities. This 9 person team of Syrians will be led by the private sector urban planning consultant who is advising the Syrian government. The additional team members represent the key action officers in Syria's governorates: Aleppo, Homs, Damascus and Al-Jazeera. This SCP will be an ideal opportunity for the team to coordinate their urban planning vision for Syria, develop concrete plans, and gain experience and ideas from the U.S. experience. The proposed timeframe for this program is between mid October and early November, 2009.

15. (U) Post has submitted individual nominations for each program through EVDB.
